

1975 A Revolution in Shaving

BIC is a global leader in everyday essentials, from stationery and creative expression to lighters and shavers, bringing simplicity and joy to everyday life. For over 80 years, BIC has been trusted in more than 160 countries for its safe, high-quality, and affordable products. From iconic pens and notebooks to tattoos, hairbrushes, and more, BIC inspires creativity while making daily routines easier and more enjoyable.

The roots of our journey trace back to 1952 when Violex was founded in Greece as a producer of the Astor double-edge blades. In 1973, BIC founder Marcel Bich was considering launching a razor that would be safe, easy to use and accessible to everyone.

In 1974, Violex joined forces with BIC, establishing BIC Violex. The following year BIC revolutionized grooming habits with the launch of the world's first single-piece disposable shaver. 50 years later, the BIC 1 remains the company's most sold razor worldwide – a true testament to its timeless design and trusted performance.

Marcel Bich, 1975

Sold at the same price as a similar quality blade (double-edge), this price point is entirely justified by a better cutting angle and an improved blade housing, with a single edge capable of shaving at least as many beards as the two edges of an ordinary blade. Eliminating the second edge pays for the plastic part of the shaver.
